

In the usually quiet city of Paris, where nothing much ever happened, an unusual event unfolded. The sky crackled with energy, showering the unsuspecting children of Elmwood Primary School with shimmering sparks of power. Within days, news spread of ordinary children exhibiting extraordinary abilities. Amelia, a quiet bookworm, found herself able to manipulate the elements with a flick of her wrist. Ethan, the joker, discovered his ability to bend reality, creating incredible illusions that captivated his friends. Together they formed the Guardians of Avalonia, a superhero team determined to protect their city. But there was one more kid his name was Gojo. His power was that he was a part of Jiu Jitsu. Kyson was an elite team of sorcerer gods; they could throw people with their minds and kill people in an instant click.

But one day there was a tsunami a big one coming to Paris Jiu Jitsu

Kysons elite team had to stop this so they flew to Paris.

When they got there the tsunami or ready hit buildings where smashed glass was everywhere it was too late but in the distance they could see another tsunami it was bigger than before but at the last second a boy called Goku had blown powers the Jiu Jitsu Kyson got their powers and

All gathered also the boy and blew the tsunami away. 1 weeks later

They were on the news and they were a part of the police force now. They were proud of themselves and when any tsunami came they could stop it with their elite force.
